

PHILIP SOKOLOFF
Publicity for the theatre
P.O. Box 94387
Pasadena, CA 91109-4387
(626) 683-9205
fax (626) 683-9172
e-mail: showbizphil@shcglobal.net

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 18, 2014

Press/media contact: Philip Sokoloff, (626) 683-9205

BACK FROM THE UNDEAD! STUART GORDON DIRECTS “RE-ANIMATOR™ THE MUSICAL” AT STEVE ALLEN THEATER; OPENS OCTOBER 17 FOR A HALLOWEEN RUN

WHAT: “Re-Animator™ The Musical.” Revival of the award-winning musical hit.

WHO: Book by Dennis Paoli, Stuart Gordon and William J. Norris. Music and lyrics by Mark Nutter. Adapted from the story by H.P. Lovecraft. Based on the film “H.P. Lovecraft’s Re-Animator” produced by Brian Yuzna. Musical director: Peter Adams. Choreography by Cynthia Carle. Directed by Stuart Gordon. Produced by Dean Schramm and Stuart Gordon. Presented by The Schramm Group LLC and Red Hen Productions in association with Trepary House.

WHERE: The Steve Allen Theater, 4773 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90027. Parking lot behind building.

WHEN: Previews Oct. 10, 11, 12 . Opens October 17, 2014, runs through November 2. Fridays through Sundays at 8:00 p.m.

ADMISSION: $25. Previews $20.

RESERVATIONS: 800-595-4849

ONLINE TICKETING: www.treparyhouse.org

*

*

*

*

*

*

“Re-Animator™ the Musical” has been re-animated, with new songs and new performers just in time for Halloween.

“RE-ANIMATOR™ the Musical” tells the story of Herbert West, a brilliant young medical student who has created a glowing green serum that can bring the dead back to life. What should be a medical breakthrough results in hideous monstrosities and ghastly consequences. “I guess he just wasn’t fresh enough,” is West’s constant refrain in his quest for fresh subjects. Graham Skipper, who won a Best New Performer Award at the

New York Musical Theater Festival for his crowd-pleasing turn, returns as the demented young genius.

And operatic Jesse Merlin, is back as Dr. Carl Hill who loses his head for Meg, the dean's beautiful daughter, only to actually lose it at the hands of Herbert West. But thanks to the glowing re-agent, Dr. Hill is still able to take his curtain call with his head tucked underneath his arm.

Also returning from the original cast are (in alphabetical order) Cynthia Carle, Brian Gillespie, Marlon Grace, and Liesel Hanson playing an assortment of doctors, nurses and rampaging zombies.

New to the cast and Los Angeles are Darren Ritchie (veteran of five Broadway shows, including "Dracula" and "Little Shop of Horrors") as Dan Cain, the handsome young medical student (and West's hapless roommate) in love with the dean's beautiful daughter, now played by vivacious newcomer Jessica Howell (recently on Showtime's "Masters of Sex"). And Ken Hudson Campbell, familiar to many for saving the world with Bruce Willis in "Armageddon," plays the doomed Dean of the medical school whom West transforms into a mindless zombie.

Stuart Gordon, the director and co-writer of "H.P. Lovecraft's Re-Animator," the cult film on which the musical is based, has joined his fearless producing partner Dean Schramm to prove that anything that can be done in a movie can be a hundred times more astonishing live on stage. Gordon spent fifteen years as the founder and artistic director of the Organic Theater of Chicago, where he co-created the original production of "Bleacher Bums," and produced and directed the world premiere of David Mamet's "Sexual Perversity in Chicago." Gordon recently co-created and directed the long-running and critically acclaimed "Nevermore" with "Re-Animator" film star Jeffrey Combs as Edgar Allan Poe that is now touring the country.

Mark Nutter is composer and lyricist and his cheerfully disturbing songs have been compared to Tom Lehrer. His previous stage credits include the international hit "The Bicycle Men"; "Christmas Smackdown" (created with the equally demented Cynthia Carle); and "Wild Men." He's also known for his work on "3rd Rock From the Sun" and "Saturday Night Live." His CD "Twisted Songs for Twisted Sophisticates" has been banned from the airwaves.

Special effects are being done by the same guys who did them for the "Re-Animator" movie: Tony Doublin, John Naulin and John Beuchler. They all won LA Critics' and LA Weekly Awards for their mind-boggling illusions. And the blood will flow so freely that the first row will be once again designated as a "splash zone," so bring your raincoats.

Laura Fine Hawkes, who designed the almost as bloody "Lieutenant of Inishmore" at the Taper, will provide the creepy sets, Joe Kucharski the moldering costumes and Jeff Ravitz the cadaverous lighting. Stage manager: Michael Lemek will be the master of the mayhem.

"Re-Animator™ the Musical" was developed and premiered at the Steve Allen Theater under the artistic direction of Amit Itelman who also founded Trepaly House.

What better way to enjoy the Halloween season than by being soaked with blood as you sing along with the most depraved musical in town.